

2014 | Dave Perillo

Dave Perillo is a freelance Illustrator and designer based out of the Philadelphia area. His retro art style developed from his love of the mid-century modern aesthetic. Dave draws inspiration from Walt Disney, Mary Blair, Charles Schultz, Ray Harryhausen, Roy Lichtenstein, Jim Henson, Hanna Barbera, 1950's Sci-Fi Movies, and Alfred Hitchcock.

Dave has worked with Disney, Pixar, Warner Bros, 20th Century Fox, Marvel Studios, The Beatles, among many other notable clients.

ARTIST STATEMENT:

"The idea for the poster kinda stemmed from the color red. Red is being used as the identifying color for the comedy part of SXSW so it got me thinking about bulls seeing red, then rodeos and the whole rodeo clown thing fit for comedy. They wanted to incorporate the frog idea that originated last year on Todd Slater's poster, so the frog became the rodeo clown. He seems to be the mascot for SXSW comedy." — daveperilloart.com/
