

2016 | Steve Thomas

Before becoming a freelance illustrator/graphic artist, Steve Thomas worked for newspapers creating graphics and illustrations for 14 years, working for every section of the paper from Life and Entertainment to Sports. His love for vintage posters, propaganda and product art from the early 20th century, and an interest in retro-futuristic art from the mid-20th has strongly influenced his work.

From label expo organizers to architecture firms, Steve's had the opportunity to create artwork under such licenses as Star Wars, Disney, Fox, Star Trek, Hasbro, The Muppets, and Marvel.

ARTIST STATEMENT:

"The great thing about illustrations like this is the freedom of creativity, similar to a band gig poster. However, I always try to give a sense of place where the event is taking place. After that I usually take my influence from vintage travel and advertising art - in this case it was racing. Mash that up with some soap box derby action to create some movement and drama and we have the result." — stevethomasart.com/
