

2019 | Juan Carlos Ruiz Burgos

Born in Granada (Spain), Juan Carlos Ruiz Burgos became a graphic designer before he obtained a degree in Illustration at the School of Art of Granada. Juan Carlos started working as a cover artist in the comic book industry in 2013. Although most of his work is for comics, he has also developed art for all kinds of projects such as album covers, books, magazines or film posters. Juan Carlos has worked for IDW, Zenescope, Red Giant Entertainment, Amigo Comics, working on such licenses as Sherlock Holmes, GI Joe, Uncharted, Star Wars, Street Fighter, Resident Evil, and more.

ARTIST STATEMENT:

“When SXSW asked me to do the 2019 poster, I wasn’t familiar with the event at all. But the coolest part of the assignment was that I had the freedom to do anything I wanted. So I couldn’t say no to that. The only condition was to add the frog with a jester hat that became a common element in all of their previous posters. They mentioned that they loved my series of illustrations that pay homage to the Norman Rockwell magazine covers, so I tried to keep in mind a nice vintage thematic and style for the final art.” — ruizburgos.es
